1st Prayer

I see that the prayer starts with Blessed Lord. This is an apt start to the the prayer, because we are praying to receive the wisdom and prayer ability of the Lord. Thus, if the Lord is giving us something, he is certainly blessed. Is it not odd that the person who gives is more blessed than the one who receives? Surely we see this here. I find that being glorified and being able to pray well are two connected things in this prayer. I find this interesting and intriguing. I think that a strong prayer warrior or someone who can sincerely come before God and connect with God very personally and intimately is one who can be glorified the most. The Bible says, “I am the vine and you are the branches. Abide in me, and if you don’t abide in me you can do nothing.” This is very important. If we do not abide in the Lord we can do nothing. And a strong connection and abiding is usually prayer. Prayer connects us with God and allows us to make decisions and behavior that aligns with God. Without prayer, we are autonomous, like God like after eating the fruit of knowledge of good and evil, and we are separated from God. We will make decisions based on what we think and feel, and repeat the same old patterns of sin without repentance. When we pray, God will open our eyes to see the sin that we need to repent. He will give us thoughts and enlightenment that we need to live the rest of our lives better. He will give us insights. Sometimes we think that prayer is giving words to God. But actually, it is a two-way street, and we should receive a lot from God. Once again, we can receive insight, voice, words, and understanding from God from prayer.

I am intrigued by the fact that we are priests since we pray. Prayer connects us with God and the mediation between man and God is the priest. Thus, I agree that we stand as a priest in the presence of God.

One of the things I think requires criticism is being too humble. The prayer essentially says, “I don’t know how to pray at all and I need to learn from the master.” As a Christian for 20 years, I can say I can pray well. I can pray better, but I’m not going to say Satan is my fellow church member. I’m a strong and good Christian.

Prayer 2

Once again, it starts with Blessed Lord. Blessings are a wonderful thing and show that it has value. Ephesians says that we’ve been given all spiritual blessings. We are blessed because the Lord is blessed. The blessings of the Lord are given to us. Thus, we should have a spirituality and a prayer life that is similar to that of the Lord’s. When I pray, I feel blessed. The Lord is listening to me and I feel connected with God. When I was a child, I couldn’t feel God a lot of the times when I prayed. However, the feeling of God comes and goes and we need to trust even when we cannot feel.

The prayer says that the woman refused to offer a cup of water to the Lord. It sounds so negative. I think the woman was just uncertain or ignorant. Also, she didn’t want to break social norms as she was a woman. The true worship of God will be wonderful and inclusive.

Prayer is worship. I think that is the point that this prayer is trying to make. We want to pray in a way that worships God and that we pray in spirit and in truth. If we pray in a rote manner, with memorized lines that have no heart or sincerity, we are not praying correctly.

This time it is blessed Saviour. The Lord God is not just a person who sits on the throne of heaven and looks down on us, but is our saviour. A saviour is stronger than the one he saves. And this savior is different in that he uses his strength to take our weakness and our mistakes. When we pray to God, we should remember that our Lord is Saviour and worship him as the one who can save us from the hardship of our lives. The Bible says he takes up our illnesses and takes up our infirmities. He gives us strength and he provides for us when we need it. It is this good God that we pray to and serve and worship during our times of quietness. When we pray, we should go into the inner chamber, which is a quiet place and holy place. A place he meets us alone and directly and we can focus on him. We do not pray intimately when there are many people and there is business going on.

The prayers says that he trusts the He will give what His child requires. Once again, this talks about him being a savior. And I love how the word tenderness is used. Sometimes the world can be so rough and tumble, the tenderness of Christ is so gentle and sweet and babyish when that is what we need all the time.

Prayer 4

We pray not to Jesus only, but to the Father and Holy Spirit. The reason why he is called our father is because he takes care of us and he loves us like children. So deep and full they are - what a wonderful choice of words. I believe that this echos Paul's words which is how deep and wide and long and high is the love of God. And when we enter into the fellowship of God, we understand that we are part of a family, and that God loves Jesus as a son and as his own blood. And we are partakers of the divine nature and Peter says in the Bible. Jesus knows the father and no man knows the father except the Son - thus, in order to know God, we must not just read the Old Testament, but look to the Son. If you have seen the Son, you have seen the Father. May we love others the way the Father loves us. Slowly, everyday, as we make adjustments to love God, we will love others too.

Prayer 5

Finally, the prayer does not say blessed. This is a sign of calling out to the Lord because he is saying, “O Lord Jesus!” At this point, we are not exalting God but calling God and asking him to teach us everything we need to know. The wonderful thing about God being Father is that he gives good gifts. All good things come from the Father of lights, says James. God gives good gifts to his children. Seek the Lord and ask seek and knock and he will open the door.
